MAYOR OF THE CITY OF NEW YORK

PRESIDENT OF THE ART COMMISSION

Mayor Koch said, "Each award testifies to the increased effort by city agencies, their design teams and consulting architects, to come up with creative, exciting and practical solutions to the design challenges of our urban environment. These awards also symbolize a year of long hours and significant commitment on the part of the Art Commission to carry out its mandate to protect and enhance this city's built environment."

Mr. Ames said, "After reviewing the several hundred design projects submitted in 1984, the members of the commission have selected eight projects, diverse in design and scope, which stand out as great achievements. These projects, when constructed, will distinguish the cityscape and serve as models for superior design in the future."
